Location: Newark, Nottinghamshire
Client: Currys Distribution Centre
Supplier: Sherborne Sound

Client:

Professional audio installer - Sherborne Sound - were briefed to design and deliver a 3-way, de-centralised interactive AV solution for the Currys Distribution Centre in Newark, Nottinghamshire that would allow a number of areas within the building to either work independently, or as one global presentation system with content delivered from the main system located in the boardroom. With the assistance of our specification team, Sherborne used products from across the CIE PA and AV product ranges to provide a zoned, interactive system to meet the customer's needs.

System Requirements:

Each staff presentation area was to have an installed with a ProVue PVI2600 interactive projector, local AV amplifier (AVID) and IO. The system, therefore, allows each zone to deliver individual presentations, or when required, a site wide presentation presented to all staff consecutively, directly from the boardroom. Presenter's speech was reinforced by the use of Chiayo wireless microphones that delivered the audio both via the local amplifiers and the larger InterM-powered 100v line system.

The Solution:

Being a large distribution centre with significant staff numbers, images and presentations are projected directly on to the internal walls of the areas in question to approx. 4m diagonally, with interactivity provided via the IR control of the ProVue projectors.

The wireless microphones can be used anywhere within the distribution area, via distributed antennas.
